

Institute for Social Sciences

2015-16

NOON
LECTURES

Do Prior Experiences Shape Future Expectations? Children’s Developing Intuitions About How the Mind Generalizes From the Past

With Kristin H. Lagattuta
UC Davis Psychology Department

Thursday, February 25, 2016

12:10 - 1:00 p.m. Lecture
Memorial Union, MUII
Brown bag lunches welcome
Lecture begins promptly at 12:10pm

Kristin H. Lagattuta is a professor of psychology and a core member of the Center for Mind and Brain at the University of California, Davis. Dr. Lagattuta investigates children’s and adults’ emotion understanding, theory of mind, moral cognition, social categorization, reasoning about uncertainty, decision making, and future forecasting. In addition to age-related changes, Dr. Lagattuta is interested in sources of individual differences in social cognition, including executive control, visual attention, and mental health.